Dear John,

I am pleased to be able to share with you the first information about the revised BMW 5 Series Saloon and Touring range as well as the exciting news of the addition of a new BMW M5 Touring, the first time the high-performance estate has been offered to British customers. The new models will be launched in the UK in March 2007 and are set to build on the success of the 5 Series as the benchmark Executive car with even greater performance, efficiency and practicality.

The new BMW 5 Series range features a host of innovative technologies that make the world's best Executive car even better. Engine innovations such as High Precision Direct Injection and twin-turbo charging improve the performance and economy alongside class-leading comfort technologies such as Lane Departure Warning Systems and Head-up Display. All nine engine units are entirely new or have been significantly revised. The increases in performance and economy come courtesy of a number of new technologies that combine to provide significant and noticeable driver benefits.
